↳ MUSEUM SUMMER ART CLASSES
FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

For young people interested in art, The Cleveland Museum of Art is now offering summer art classes which give practical experience and opportunities to learn.

There are OUTDOOR SKETCHING CLASSES for boys and girls, aged 6 to 16, who enjoy painting and sketching in the open. For advanced students, 14 to 16 years of age, there is a SPECIAL WATER COLOR CLASS held in the park area surrounding the Museum. High schoolers who are interested in modern and contemporary works may especially enjoy the SEMINAR IN MODERN ART which follows the main trends in 19th and 20th century art and the development of film as an art form.

The classes are open to the public. Information about them and about how to register is available at the Museum's Education Department. Phone GArfield 1-7340. Registration closes June 12.
